The Statue of Liberty is depicted in a stylized, ethereal manner, appearing to emerge from a misty or smoky base. She holds a torch aloft in her right hand, which is the source of a brilliant, sun-like glow. Radiant beams of light emanate from this point, spreading across the upper half of the image. The statue's crown features seven spikes, and her robes are flowing. The background is a vast, hazy sky with soft, wispy clouds. Below the statue, a series of layered, misty mountains in shades of blue and green stretch across the horizon. Several birds are shown in flight, scattered across the middle ground. A thin vertical line divides the entire image in half.
